

COURSE TWO

Effortless SUCCESS

≡ LIVING THE LAW OF ATTRACTION ≡

Integrating the Law of Attraction

Jack Canfield
with Paul R. Scheele

Course Two

Integrating the Law of Attraction

In this second course of the Effortless Success program, you will be guided along four pathways to help you expand the self, integrate guidance, empower intention, and access will. By now you are well aware that you are always attracting the events and circumstances of your life. You are bringing into your life what you think about, feel, and act upon.

Just as you fully expect the food you order at a restaurant to arrive exactly as you ordered it, you will find that the Law of Attraction works the same way in your life. During your day you are constantly placing orders, whether you are aware of it or not. If you say, “I get so frustrated with Tom. He never does what I ask him to do,” you have just placed an order.

If you say, “I’m a caring, nurturing person, and I’m now attracting a meaningful, loving relationship,” you have just placed an order. In either case, the universe will bring you what you have requested.

Following the four pathways in this course will ensure you consistently place orders that are in your best interest. You will learn many practical processes you can apply daily to make sure the Law of Attraction brings you what you really want.

To gain the greatest benefit from your Effortless Success program, be sure to listen to the supporting audio recordings that come with Course Two. Listen to the Paraliminal Believing several times during the first week of study, then once a week thereafter. Listen to the Effortless Success Meditations CD as instructed to further guide your progress, and use the Fast Finish recording for a quick review—or preview—of everything in Course Two.

Introduction

Contents

Clarify Your Life Purpose	75
Review Your Life Purpose Daily	77
Emotional Scale	78
Actions That Make You Feel Good	79
Identify Hidden Feelings	81
Turn Around Limiting Beliefs	82
Summary	84

Session 1: Expand the Self

In this session you will learn three methods to:

- Clarify your life purpose.
- Raise your vibration.
- Restructure limiting beliefs.

These tools will help you develop skills required to live in harmony with the Law of Attraction. The clearer you are about your purpose, and the more your emotions and beliefs are aligned with it, the more likely it is you will attract what you desire.

Exercise

CD 1, Track 2

Clarify Your Life Purpose

Step 1:

List two of your personal qualities others most appreciate about you (e.g., enthusiasm, creativity, joy):

1) _____

2) _____

Step 2:

Describe the way you most enjoy expressing each of the two qualities listed in Step 1 (such as singing, building things, teaching):

I most enjoy expressing quality Number 1 by _____

I most enjoy expressing quality Number 2 by _____

Step 3:

Visualize your perfect world. Specifically, envision how people close to you are interacting, and imagine how you feel living in such a world. Then write a statement in the present tense describing this perfect world of yours—how it looks, feels, sounds, smells, tastes, etc.:

“When you are aligned with your purpose, the things you’re doing feel effortless.”

Clarify Your Life Purpose
(continued)

“My life purpose is to inspire and empower people to live their highest vision in the context of love and joy.”

Step 4:

Draw upon everything you thought, felt, and expressed in the first three steps to state your life purpose:

My life purpose is _____

If I were to draw, paint, or sculpt an image of my life purpose, it would look like:

If you are not completely clear about your life purpose at this point, that is all right. You have taken an important series of steps. This exercise can be repeated any time.

Exercise

CD 1, Track 2

“When I created a picture of my life purpose—inspiring and empowering people to live their highest vision in the context of love and joy—I drew a picture of a hand holding a smiling heart, and standing on top of that heart was a whole group of people reaching upward toward their goals.”

Review Your Life Purpose Daily

Revisiting your life purpose on a daily basis is very important to keep yourself on track. There are several ways you can do this:

- ☐ Type your life purpose statement into your computer in a large font size so it fills a sheet of paper.
- ☐ Print your life purpose statement and post it where you will see it every day—on a refrigerator, bulletin board, mirror, or workplace wall—or make it into a screen saver on your computer.

Or:

- ☐ Draw an image that symbolizes your life purpose and post it where you will see it often.

Or:

- ☐ Create a collage of pictures and words pasted on a piece of paper, a big piece of art board, or a three-part, foldable display board. Put it where you will see it.

Or:

- ☐ Create an artistic expression of your life purpose—such as a song, dance, tapestry, or sculpture—that you can sing, perform, or display to remind yourself of your life purpose and express it to others.

Exercise

CD 1, Track 3

INCREASING VIBRATION

Emotional Scale

The Emotional Scale below reflects an increasing level of energy vibration, from the low-energy feelings such as guilt, fear, and depression at Level 1 to the high-energy feelings such as joy, love, and passion at Level 10. When you learn how to successfully let go of the low-energy feelings of one level, you will uncover the feelings of the next higher level, moving up the Emotional Scale. As you practice and become skilled at this, your life experience will be more positive, and everything about your life will seem easier.

Level 10: joy, appreciation, empowerment, freedom, love, passion

Level 9: enthusiasm, eagerness, happiness

Level 8: positive expectation, belief, optimism

Level 7: hopefulness, contentment

Level 6: boredom, pessimism

Level 5: frustration, irritation, impatience, feeling overwhelmed

Level 4: disappointment, doubt

Level 3: worry, blame, discouragement

Level 2: anger, revenge, hatred, jealousy, rage

Level 1: insecurity, guilt, unworthiness, fear, grief, depression, despair, powerlessness

Exercise

CD 1, Track 4

Actions That Make You Feel Good

Instead of staying stuck in a negative emotion, you can do something that moves you up the Emotional Scale. In the space below, make a list of actions you can take to make yourself think and feel better.

- 1) _____
- 2) _____
- 3) _____
- 4) _____
- 5) _____
- 6) _____
- 7) _____
- 8) _____
- 9) _____
- 10) _____
- 11) _____
- 12) _____
- 13) _____
- 14) _____

Actions That Make You Feel Good
(continued)

15) _____

16) _____

17) _____

18) _____

19) _____

20) _____

21) _____

22) _____

23) _____

24) _____

25) _____

Exercise

CD 1, Track 4

"Your answers can give you wonderful insight into the emotional patterns that may be blocking your success and clear guidance on how to create positive new directions."

Identify Hidden Feelings

In the space below, write your answers to the following questions.

- 1) What feelings are you aware of that you have recently hidden or suppressed from others?

- 2) From whom specifically do you hide these feelings?

- 3) What do you fear would happen if you shared your feelings with them?

- 4) What does hiding feelings cost you?

- 5) What would you rather have?

- 6) How could you get it?

Exercise

CD 1, Track 5

This exercise teaches an important skill that helps you purposefully and deliberately take a belief that may be resonating at a low energy level and turn it around to raise its vibrational level to attract what you truly want to experience in life.

Turn Around Limiting Beliefs

This exercise has two parts. First, use the space below to list your limiting beliefs, and then return to the recording. When prompted, return to this exercise and describe the way each belief limits you and how you would rather restructure it. Next, write a turnaround statement supporting your new belief.

Limiting belief #1: _____

How this belief limits me: _____

I would rather be: _____

My turnaround statement supporting my new belief: _____

Limiting belief #2: _____

How this belief limits me: _____

Turn Around Limiting Beliefs
(continued)

I would rather be: _____

My turnaround statement supporting my new belief: _____

Limiting belief #3: _____

How this belief limits me: _____

I would rather be: _____

My turnaround statement supporting my new belief: _____

There is a universal limiting belief that

I am not _____ enough.

Replace this with

I am _____ enough.

Feel the immediate shift in your perception and feelings this turnaround gives you!

Summary

Expanding the Self

Life purpose can take many forms

Once you are clear about your life purpose, you will discover many different ways to express it.

Focus on your life purpose

You are born with a life purpose. It is the very reason for your existence—what you were put on earth to do. Clearly understanding, honoring, and acting in alignment with your own unique life purpose is perhaps the most significant undertaking of your life. It is the means to living a totally engaged, positive, and fulfilling life.

Listen to your feelings

The conscious mind can prevent us from accessing an emotion when that emotion is connected to a painful experience from our past, and we feel threatened by it. Remember, everything you have ever experienced was actually perfect. There was a reason for it, and you learned something from it.

Straighten up—literally

A great way to begin changing your feelings is to shift your posture, change your breathing, and change the way you hold your head up and physically look at the world. Identify the physical postures that help you feel good, and engage in them more often. Do exercises such as yoga that help you stretch your body and move. All of these help you move toward a higher vibrational state.

Introduction

Contents

Evening Review
Meditation	86
Meditating Effectively	87
The Sedona Method	89
Internal Guidance
System	90
Stomp Out
Those ANTs	91
Summary	93

Session 2: Integrate Guidance

When it comes to the Law of Attraction, there are no solos. You do not have to go it alone. You are always supported. Extraordinary guidance is always available from a source that transcends ordinary thinking.

The primary tools for integrating guidance are:

- Meditation
- Visualization
- Internal guidance system

These tools give you an amazing set of benefits, including connecting you to the source of your guidance within and ownership of self-authority. They help you consider and choose actions based on your highest desire or passion.

You have already learned meditation and visualization techniques in previous sessions, including the Creating Your Day meditation and the Vision Board for supporting your visualizations. You can review these exercises in the Guidebook for Course One. You also learned The Sedona Method for releasing emotions, a tool that will be used in this session.

You will learn a new process for ending your day—the Evening Review, which is a perfect expansion of the Daily Review you learned earlier. You will also be introduced to new techniques for releasing Automatic Negative Thoughts (known as ANTs) and using your internal guidance system to help you make decisions.

These tools can fit into your lifestyle very naturally. They can be used quickly and easily any time and any where.

Exercise

CD 2, Track 1

"Most of us go through a whole day and never harvest the wisdom from our experiences."

Evening Review Meditation

The Daily Review was described in Course One. The Evening Review is an expanded meditation process to use at the end of the day. During the Evening Review, you seek guidance about how to be more effective based on what you have learned from your experiences that day. Begin by relaxing, breathing deeply, and closing your eyes. Then take the steps below.

- 1) Ask yourself questions such as:
 - How could I have been more effective today?
 - How could I have been more conscious today?
 - How could I have been more inspired today?
 - How could I have been more loving (or more assertive or more intentional) today?

- 2) Select up to three situations from your day, and visualize how each one will play out next time it occurs.

Situation #1 as it occurred today: _____

As it will play out next time: _____

Situation #2 as it occurred today: _____

As it will play out next time: _____

Situation #3 as it occurred today: _____

As it will play out next time: _____

Meditating Effectively

When using meditation to ask for and receive inspiration and guidance, focus on one of three primary areas:

- 1) Your daily actions, either when Creating Your Day or doing your Evening Review.
- 2) Specific issues and questions for which you want answers.
- 3) Gaining clarity about your life purpose and the next steps you need to take to help you fulfill it.

There are a variety of ways to quiet the mind and enhance your conscious awareness of yourself and the world.

Vipassana

The Vipassana meditation included in your course is a simple but powerful technique to help you calm your mind (Effortless Success Meditations, Course Two, CD 6). This meditation has been used for more than 2,500 years to create an experience of increased self-awareness and peace.

The two-step process involves observation of your breath and observation of the changing flow of sensations in your body. Listening will place you in a state of expanded awareness and deep understanding of your nature. Learn more in the Vipassana introduction, Track 3, and enjoy the meditation on Track 4.

The Complete Breath

The Complete Breath is another powerful tool for relaxing the body and calming the mind. Spiritual master Jeddah Mali explains it in our Seeds of Enlightenment meditation program as follows:

- 1) Inhale slowly, bringing air into your belly and the bottom of your lungs.
- 2) Keep inhaling as you expand your rib cage and raise your shoulders.

- 3) Now slowly exhale from top to bottom. Relax your shoulders and abdominal muscles. Gently squeeze out any remaining air.

Repeat the above steps five times, and savor the relaxing sensations. As you continue practicing, your stream of thought will slow down, and you will find a wonderful sense of clarity and balance.

Sounds, images, and objects

You can also access a quiet, still space by using sound in the form of a meaningful word or tone that is used repeatedly. The slow, rhythmic repetition will quiet and inspire you as your focus turns inward.

Some people like to focus within on the energy centers of the body or to connect with an image of a divine being. Use whatever image is the most inspiring and centering symbol for you.

You may also consider an external approach with your eyes open. Focus on a candle flame, symbol, or picture that makes you feel expansive and serene. Or, let nature be your guide. Spend time in silence gazing at a colorful flower, falling leaves, or a blanket of snow on the horizon. Ask yourself a question, and reflect for several minutes or more.

It is important that you make time to meditate. Experiment to see which method is most effective for you!

Exercise

CD 2, Track 3

The Sedona Method was introduced in Course One. It is offered in Course Two to expand and deepen the skills you need to raise your vibration by climbing the Emotional Scale, on Page 78.

The Sedona Method

When you are not feeling good about an emotion you are experiencing, you can use the following method to release it:

- Step 1: Close your eyes, go inside, and ask yourself what you are feeling.
- Step 2: Allow yourself to feel the feeling you have identified.
- Step 3: After experiencing the feeling deeply for a time, ask yourself, “Could I let this feeling go?” (The answer is almost always, “Yes, I could.”)
- Step 4: Then ask yourself, “Would I let this feeling go?” Give yourself some time to determine you are truly willing to let the feeling go.
- Step 5: Finally, ask yourself, “When?”

Repeat the process as many times as necessary to feel completely emptied of the feeling.

Exercise

CD 2, Track 4

Internal Guidance System

As you listen to the audio recording, Jack guides you through a series of calibrations with your internal guidance system. Repeating the two sentences below and writing the feelings that arise is one way to develop this calibration. Use this exercise to help you tune in to how your body gives you guidance. Once you recognize your body's signals in this practice exercise, you can use this system for guidance in real situations whenever you face a choice.

- 1) To experience your body's response to a negative proposition, repeat this sentence: "I do not have an internal guidance system, and I am adrift in a random universe with no support or direction."

I felt _____

For a positive response, say: "I have a totally reliable and accurate internal guidance system, which is always available to me and supports me in knowing exactly what is for my highest good."

I felt _____

- 2) Now that you have experienced both the positive and negative responses of your internal guidance system, try it out on a real situation in your life (Should I accept a new job offer? Should I buy a new house?).

The situation is _____

I felt _____

Exercise

CD 2, Track 4

"In seminars we use kinesiology. I have people put their arm out to their side and think a negative thought, and they can't hold their arm up when I push down on it. Then they think a positive thought, and their arm stays up stronger. We see that thoughts literally affect our physiology."

Stomp Out Those ANTs

To rid yourself of your Automatic Negative Thoughts (ANTs), you can "stomp" them out by using the technique developed by neuroscientist Doug Bench and described below.

For three days—including two workdays—record every negative thought that pops into your head, and then describe in writing the way it makes you feel. To release these negative thoughts, use The Sedona Method taught earlier. You can record ten ANTs here, or use a journal to capture as many ANTs as you can discover.

ANT #1: _____

The emotion it creates is _____

ANT #2: _____

The emotion it creates is _____

ANT #3: _____

The emotion it creates is _____

ANT #4: _____

The emotion it creates is _____

ANT #5: _____

The emotion it creates is _____

ANT #6: _____

The emotion it creates is _____

Stomp Out
Those ANTs
(continued)

ANT #7: _____

The emotion it creates is _____

ANT #8: _____

The emotion it creates is _____

ANT #9: _____

The emotion it creates is _____

ANT #10: _____

The emotion it creates is _____

A helpful approach

A secondary exercise for stomping out those ANTs is to ask yourself the following questions:

- Is this thought helping or hurting me?
- Is this thought moving me closer to where I want to go, or is it moving me farther away?
- Is this thought motivating me to action, or is it blocking me with fear and self-doubt?

Summary

Integrating Guidance

Meditate regularly

Meditation is a perfect opportunity to ask for and receive inspiration and guidance. You can ask for solutions to specific questions about issues or challenges. You can also seek clarity about your life purpose and vision.

Visualize your desired outcomes

When you visualize, you enter a state of imagination with deliberate intention. The process motivates you to take inspired actions necessary to achieve your goals. It moves you toward the vision that is in alignment with your life purpose.

Leave the day behind

Live your life in day-tight compartments. When you are able to leave the day completely behind, you will be better prepared for the next one. This opens space to allow opportunity for something far more creative to emerge the following day.

Introduction

Contents

The Passion Test	95
Life Purpose, Vision, Goals, and Passions	101
Breakthrough Goal	103
Rule of Five	104
Appreciation Game	105
Victory Log	108
Mirror Exercise	109
Express Gratitude	110
Summary	111

Session 3: Empower Intention

Certain intentions can create an unstoppable momentum for positive change. Jack and Paul refer to these as breakthrough goals. Besides inspiring you, these goals can attract new opportunities for success, health, relationships, and personal growth. In fact, a single goal in any one of these dimensions of your life can affect all the other dimensions.

The pathway of empowering intentions runs between forming intention and taking action. To empower your intentions, you will use five primary tools:

- Identifying your passion
- Setting your breakthrough goal
- Feeling appreciation
- Building your self-confidence
- Expressing your gratitude

Once you form intentions for your life, use these tools to help you achieve your goals and vision. They will prepare you to effortlessly complete the obvious action steps you need to take as well as additional action steps that come to you through inspiration and meditation.

In this session you will learn how important it is to express gratitude for what is already present in your life. You will do exercises that guide you in appreciating yourself, building self-confidence, and living fully in the present.

Maintaining an attitude of gratitude empowers your intentions and helps you achieve greater integration of your goals into all areas of your life, including your family, community, and the world. You will also notice other benefits such as an increased openness to what emerges and a greater trust that the world is on your side.

Exercise

CD 3, Track 1

The Passion Test

Use Chris Attwood and Janet Attwood's Passion Test to create a list of ten things that would make your life and work ideal—things you are most passionate about experiencing. If you were doing these ten things, you would be feeling fulfilled and complete.

- 1) _____
- 2) _____
- 3) _____
- 4) _____
- 5) _____
- 6) _____
- 7) _____
- 8) _____
- 9) _____
- 10) _____

"As you begin to more fully embody your life purpose, you're going to find that you have more passion flowing through you, because your actions and your goals and everything you're doing are aligned with this higher purpose."

The Passion Test (continued)

"Getting in touch with our passion often comes from a very deep, quiet space within."

Now rank your top five passions and enter them on the designated lines. Passion #1 is at the top of the list and Passion #5 is at the bottom. After you have recorded the five passions, rate them from 0 to 10, indicating the degree to which they are present in your life. Circling "0" indicates the passion is not present in your life at all. Circling "10" means it is fully present.

My #1 passion is _____

Presence: 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

My #2 passion is _____

Presence: 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

My #3 passion is _____

Presence: 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

My #4 passion is _____

Presence: 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

My #5 passion is _____

Presence: 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

The Passion Test
(continued)

Next, describe three to five markers for each passion—things that would be occurring if this passion were fully present in your life.

My #1 passion is _____

Markers for this passion:

1) _____

2) _____

3) _____

4) _____

5) _____

My #2 passion is _____

Markers for this passion:

1) _____

2) _____

3) _____

4) _____

5) _____

The Passion Test
(continued)

My #3 passion is _____

Markers for this passion:

- 1) _____
- 2) _____
- 3) _____
- 4) _____
- 5) _____

My #4 passion is _____

Markers for this passion:

- 1) _____
- 2) _____
- 3) _____
- 4) _____
- 5) _____

My #5 passion is _____

Markers for this passion:

- 1) _____
- 2) _____
- 3) _____
- 4) _____
- 5) _____

The Passion Test
(continued)

Finally, write a paragraph for each of the top five passions, describing in detail what would be occurring if that passion were fully present in your life.

My #1 passion is _____

When it is fully present, my life looks like this: _____

My #2 passion is _____

When it is fully present, my life looks like this: _____

The Passion Test
(continued)

My #3 passion is _____

When it is fully present, my life looks like this: _____

My #4 passion is _____

When it is fully present, my life looks like this: _____

My #5 passion is _____

When it is fully present, my life looks like this: _____

Exercise

CD 3, Track 1

Life Purpose, Vision, Goals, and Passions

Review your life purpose, your vision, and your goals in the dimensions of success, health, relationships, and personal growth, and check their alignment with your passions. Are your purpose and vision consistent with your passions? Will achieving your goals put you more in touch with your top passions? Rewrite them in the following spaces if you need to make revisions.

If you have not yet recorded your life purpose, vision, and goals take time to do so here.

My life purpose statement:

My vision of how the world around me will look as I unfold my purpose:

“My life purpose is to inspire and empower others to live their highest vision in the context of love and joy.”

Life Purpose, Vision,
Goals, and Passions
(continued)

Success Goal:

Health Goal:

Relationship Goal:

Personal Growth Goal:

Exercise

CD 3, Track 2

“What we want to imagine at this point is how to best use the Law of Attraction to inspire and attract opportunities that generate something much more all encompassing and transformative—really bringing and generating an unstoppable passion for you to do something that changes your life.”

Breakthrough Goal

Create a breakthrough goal for yourself, a single goal that will quantum-leap you to the next level. It’s a great way to generate limitless opportunities in your life. Your breakthrough goal could be in the area of success, business, and money, or it could be in the areas of health, relationships, or personal growth. Choose your breakthrough goal, and write it below. Then take a moment to visualize already having achieved it, noting how your life has changed, what you are doing, and what you are seeing and hearing.

Breakthrough goal: _____

What I will experience after I achieve my breakthrough goal:

Exercise

CD 3, Track 2

Rule of Five

Every day do five specific action steps that move you closer to your breakthrough goal.

My five steps for today are:

- 1) _____

- 2) _____

- 3) _____

- 4) _____

- 5) _____

Exercise

CD 3, Track 3

Appreciation Game

The Appreciation Game can help you empower your intention, so you can effectively take the actions that a breakthrough goal and your other goals are going to require. Follow these four steps to play the game:

Step 1: Identify ten things you appreciate about yourself.

Step 2: Go deeper and explain why you appreciate those things about yourself.

Step 3: Recall one recent challenge you experienced.

Step 4: Identify what you appreciated about the challenge. What did it teach you? What skills did it help you develop?

Use the worksheets on the following two pages to play the game.

The Appreciation
Game
(continued)

Steps 1 and 2: Ten things I appreciate about myself and why:

- 1) I appreciate _____
because _____

- 2) I appreciate _____
because _____

- 3) I appreciate _____
because _____

- 4) I appreciate _____
because _____

- 5) I appreciate _____
because _____

- 6) I appreciate _____
because _____

- 7) I appreciate _____
because _____

- 8) I appreciate _____
because _____

- 9) I appreciate _____
because _____

- 10) I appreciate _____
because _____

The Appreciation
Game
(continued)

Step 3: A challenge I recently faced:

Step 4: What the challenge helped me learn:

Exercise

CD 3, Track 4

Victory Log

The Victory Log is a simple technique for building self-esteem and thereby empowering your intentions.

- ☐ Every night—or at the end of the work day—record all the successes of the day in your log.
- ☐ Whenever you are not feeling confident, go back and read your Victory Log.

Exercise

CD 3, Track 4

“Do not be surprised if you have some reactions when you do this the first few times. It’s very normal. Those reactions might include feeling silly, feeling embarrassed, or feeling like crying—people do cry sometimes. I actually had one person say that the mirror talked back. ‘What did it say?’ I asked. ‘It’s about time you said something nice to me.’”

Mirror Exercise

The Mirror Exercise, introduced in Course One, builds up your self-esteem. It also brings your attention to an important principle of the Law of Attraction: Focus on what works—not on what does not work. Use the Mirror Exercise every night before bed. Repeat it for at least forty consecutive days.

Step 1: Stand in front of the mirror.

Step 2: Say to yourself, “____(Your name)____, I want to appreciate you for doing this, doing that, doing this, doing that...”

Step 3: As you finish, look right into your eyes and say, “I love you.” Then pause, take a deep breath, and let that in. For many people this is very challenging to do. But when you are able to let in self-love, you increase your ability to let in more love from other people, because you cannot let in more love from others than you are able to receive from yourself.

Exercise

CD 3, Track 4

Express Gratitude

This exercise on expressing gratitude, repeated every day, is an effective method for empowering intentions. It consists of the following questions. Fill in the blanks here to give yourself practice. Do this exercise for the next forty days.

What are you grateful for?

Why are you grateful for it?

How can you express your gratitude?

What specific action can you take to express your gratitude?

When will you do that?

Summary

Empowering Intention

Stay open to inspired actions

When you empower your intentions and align your goals with your higher purpose, the universe works to support you. Trust your relationship with the world around you. Remain flexible and responsive to the emerging guidance and directions from your higher self.

Apply the Rule of Five to your breakthrough goal

When you identify a breakthrough goal that is life-altering, even transformative, do not let anything stop you from achieving it. Apply the Rule of Five. Take five specific action steps every single day that will help you attract new opportunities and experiences to your life. Your unstoppable passion will allow you to make quantum leaps in any area of life you choose.

Express gratitude

Remember to express gratitude to yourself and to the universe for all the good things in your life. You will get more of what you focus on.

Introduction

Contents

Ask: Set Intentions	113
Hour of Power	114
Believe:
Raise Expectancy	115
Dream Guidance	116
Receive:
Create Positive Emotional States	117
Prioritize Daily Actions	118
Making Requests	119
Summary	120
Moving Forward	122

Session 4: Access Will

In this session of the course you are going to travel the pathway of accessing will, which takes you from forming intention to experiencing growth. You will use the Daily Disciplines you have learned so far—from creating your day in the morning to reviewing your successes at day's end. You will also learn how to make use of the three-step model by asking and releasing, then believing and receiving.

The primary tools you will use to access your will include:

- Practicing the Daily Disciplines
- Taking action: prioritizing and timing
- Asking for what you need and want
- Discerning the difference between will and willpower

Once you plan the actions you intend to take, these tools help you access and activate the power of your will so you will effortlessly take action that is in alignment with your life purpose and vision.

When you take action from this deeper place, you find your interactions with others will feel more connected and more effortless. You will also see many of the things you want to create come much faster than you ever imagined possible. You may even experience amazing outcomes you would never have anticipated!

Exercise

CD 4, Track 1

Ask: Set Intentions

The “Ask” component of the Ask, Believe, and Receive model helps to clarify exactly what you want and effectively place your order with the universe. Every morning make use of the tools you have been acquiring to set your intentions and release any emotions that could block you from receiving what you want. These tools include:

- Meditating—to set your intentions for the day.
- Visualizing the day you would like to experience using the Creating Your Day meditation recording in this course (CD 6, Track 1).
- Releasing any negative thoughts or feelings that might get in the way of achieving your intentions.

Exercise

CD 4, Track 1

"A colleague in India always carried a massive book with him, even though he had really poor vision. Wherever he was, he'd find a minute here and a minute there during the day, and he'd finish these massive books."

Hour of Power

Jack recommends you spend an hour each morning in the following three areas:

- Twenty minutes meditating
- Twenty minutes exercising
- Twenty minutes reading

If you think you cannot do an hour, consider thirty minutes, with ten minutes devoted to each discipline, or 15 minutes broken into five-minute segments. You might even scatter the three disciplines throughout the day. For example, when you are standing in line, do some exercises while waiting. When you watch TV, do some exercises during the program or during the commercials. Something is always better than nothing.

Exercise

CD 4, Track 1

Believe: Raise Expectancy

The purpose of Believe—the second component of the Ask, Believe, and Receive model—is to raise your level of positive expectancy so your actions and experiences give you the result you want. Use the following strategies to accomplish this:

- ☐ Visualize your long-term goals.
- ☐ Feel the feelings you would experience if you had already reached your goals.
- ☐ Throughout the day, notice when you are not in a positive emotional state, and identify any thoughts that create this state.
- ☐ Substitute positive thoughts for negative ones.
- ☐ Use The Sedona Method as many times as necessary to release any feelings associated with negative thoughts.
- ☐ Take both obvious and inspired actions.

“If I don’t believe something is possible, then I won’t take action, because I don’t think it’s going to work. When you take action, it deepens your sense of belief. Someone once said, ‘Faith without action is despair.’ And so faith, true belief, true positive expectancy, is backed up with action.”

Exercise

CD 4, Track 2

Dream Guidance

Do this exercise to get a jump-start on the process of creating your day:

Step 1: Set your intentions for the next day before you go to sleep so you can receive guidance during your dream time.

Step 2: Before lying down, drink half of a full glass of water and say, “I will remember my dreams.”

Step 3: Set the half-filled glass next to your bed.

Step 4: Drink the remainder of the water in the morning and say, “I am remembering my dreams.”

Step 5: Write down the dreams and guidance immediately to ensure you do not forget them.

Exercise

CD 4, Track 2

Receive: Create Positive Emotional States

The prerequisite for realizing the third component of Ask, Believe, and Receive is to create a vibrational or emotional match for what you want to attract into your life. To do this, practice creating positive emotional states every day.

Some of the tools you can use are:

- ☐ Express gratitude for all that occurs each day, and be grateful for whatever shows up.
- ☐ Express appreciation to people for the things they are contributing or have contributed to your life, and appreciate the good you have experienced and the successes you are having.
- ☐ Celebrate all the victories and successes you and others around you are having, and take time to acknowledge your victories by doing things such as the Mirror Exercise and the Victory Log.

Exercise

CD 4, Track 3

“The last six letters in the word attraction are a-c-t-i-o-n.”

Prioritize Daily Actions

Once you have a plan for the day, it is time to act. Prioritize your actions using the following guidelines:

- ☐ The five actions for your breakthrough goal come first.
- ☐ Next come the actions related to your other goals.
- ☐ Rank all the actions in order of importance.
- ☐ Complete the most important action before beginning the second in importance, complete the second before starting on the third, and so on.

Exercise

CD 4, Tracks 3 and 4

Making Requests

After you have outlined the daily actions related to your goals, think about what requests you need to make during the day to facilitate achieving those goals. Then answer the following three questions:

Step 1: What do I want to ask for?

Step 2: Whom do I want to ask?

Step 3: When will I ask?

Tips for making requests

- When you ask for something, assume you will get it. This assumption creates a positive vibration.
- Be clear and specific. (“I want a $500-a-month raise,” not, “I’d like more money.”)
- Ask a person who can grant your request, not a person who lacks the authority or resources to do so.
- Ask repeatedly, perhaps altering the form or timing of the request.

Overcome the fear of asking

When you experience fear about asking someone for something, ask yourself the following questions:

- What does not asking cost me?
- How do I stop myself from asking for what I want or need?
- What is the potential benefit of asking—of just going for it?

“If you don’t ask, you already have a ‘No.’ So at least give the universe a shot at it by asking.”

Summary

Accessing Will

Build little habits into big results

What separates people who create extraordinary success from other people are the little extra things they do, the daily habits or disciplines they build into their normal routine. It is not about making some sudden transformation or riding a tidal wave in the stock market to become an instant millionaire. It is the daily doing of small things, such as planning your day or visualizing your successful outcomes, that builds up over time until you achieve incredible results!

Incorporate these Daily Disciplines into your life

- ☐ Write in your gratitude journal for five minutes every morning when you wake. Experience your feelings with a deep sense of gratitude.
- ☐ Meditate for 15 minutes, visualizing and affirming all of your goals and releasing all negative thoughts.
- ☐ Engage in some form of physical exercise or work out for at least twenty minutes.
- ☐ Read for another twenty minutes, focusing on materials that feed your soul and encourage your vision.
- ☐ As you go through your day, notice and release any negative thoughts, and create better ones.
- ☐ At the end of your day, acknowledge how the Law of Attraction keeps working in your life. This deepens your commitment to the Daily Disciplines.

Summary (continued)

Live your purpose and gain the energy of will

When you are in full alignment with your true purpose, you have access to will, and “your will” and “high will” become one and the same. You experience a movement of energy that is far more potent than what is normally referred to as “willpower.” This powerful energy is the Law of Attraction moving through you and attracting to you the resources you need to take the actions required to reach your goals and realize your highest vision.

Engage in the Ask, Believe, and Receive model

Continually look for ways to acknowledge yourself and celebrate your victories—and for ways to acknowledge and celebrate other people. Make this one of your Daily Disciplines. It may only require looking at yourself in the mirror every night and telling yourself how proud you are of your accomplishments that day or simply telling a coworker at the office “Great job!” When you engage in gratitude, it opens up the channel for the flow of energy into your life. You complete the cycle by receiving it, acknowledging it, and celebrating it.

Persist in asking for what you want

Many people are afraid to ask for what they want or need because it makes them feel vulnerable. Yet asking is essential to your success, and it is an art that can be perfected. Be sure to identify the person who can most effectively help you. Do not assume the other person knows what you want. Always be specific and clear in your request. Eliminate any fears you have of rejection—if you do not ask, the answer is already a no. If you persist long enough, you will get what you want.

Moving Forward

Celebrate Your Progress

To gain full benefit from Course Two, remember to listen to your Paraliminal, Effortless Success Meditations, and Fast Finish CDs.

As you complete Course Two, take a moment to celebrate how far you have progressed in understanding the Law of Attraction. The first steps in your journey were to activate this law with some basic practices and integrate them into your daily life.

In the next course, Applying the Law of Attraction, you will learn more about creating new results in specific dimensions of your life. The final course shines a spotlight on your success and offers tools for overcoming obstacles and challenges that catch you by surprise.